FASHIONS.....by Norma Hornedo

With today's accent on mobility, a perfect aid is a fall, wiglet, or wig. The best part about these tresses is that you can take them with you and you'll never have another excuse for being less than ravishing no matter how far you are from home and the dressing table. Go from an afternoon casual to an evening sophisticate.

Be a two women woman by either matching your own hair perfectly, or shifting to an entirely different shade. Hairpieces go to any length to please you and to create the mood. Available at most local beauty salons beginning at $15.00

REVIEW OF FILM FESTIVAL by Paul Allen

Last Thursday evening the Art Club sponsored a showing of "underground movies" which were weird as much as engrossing. Underground movies seem to have this tendency of drawing people to see then because of the hint of the sub rosa in the caption "underground". Actually after the filmgoer is into the viewing process he finds himself confronted with frank (but not illicit) depictions of life. Indeed many of the films are almost sermons upon contemporary life as viewed by the director. This is an aspect of film not found in Hollywood films --for fear of boring the audience and thus losing money. At times the "art" is lost in these films by the too frequent heavy-handed morality which literally picks the viewer up out of his seat, shakes him around a bit, and then drops him on the floor.

Thursday evening, I will say though, through juxtaposition of the films, composed a statement on almost every facet of life from war, peace, sex, death, denying of self, to the way in which a particular director thought music would look like if one were able to see it. I sincerely hope that there will be further festivals of this type.
